The allies continued the premier, had taken the best advice available and had summoned the allies, men to be found, upon whose advice the present demands had been made, and the allies were carrying out the present terms to the utmost of their power.

SID HATFIELD WAS SLAYER OF THREE, WITNESS TESTIFIES

Matewan Police Chief So Informed
Harry Staton, Latter
Tells Jury.

ALBERT FELTS WAS ONE

By Associated Press.

WILLIAMSON, Feb. 18.—Sid Hatfield, Matewan, chief of police, told Harry Staton, a former justice of the peace, that he had killed three of the Baldwin-Felts men in the pistol and rifle fight of May 19, Mr. Staton testified in circuit court today at the trial of 10 men, including Hatfield, charged with being implicated in the fight.

Asked who the men were, Staton said they were Albert Felts, Lee Felts and C. B. Cunningham.

The testimony created a sensation to the court. Every one of the defendants leaned forward and watched the witness to hear what further revelations he had to make.

Staton, who was a magistrate in Sprigg, a mining town nearby, was questioned closely, for every one in the room seemed to realize the prosecution was at last bringing its heavy gun into play. Staton heard of the fight late in the afternoon and heard that Sheriff Blankenship wanted him to go to Matewan and to "go armed." He hurriedly left Sprigg and walked to Matewan. He also understood, he testified, that the "major of the town" and 50 or 60 of the citizens had been killed.

When he reached Matewan, Staton said, he met Sid Hatfield who shook hands and then made the remark, he testified, that he, Hatfield, had killed three.

Staton was excused and a brief recess of court was ordered while attorneys for the state held a consultation.

Before Staton was called Miss Bessie Hamilton, a clerk in the Norfolk & Western Railroad station, testified that the fight was "one roar." She saw three bodies lying in the street, two of which, she said, Sid Hatfield shot. Later she saw him kick the prostrate form of a man lying near the bank building.

Miss Josephine Hamilton, her sister, said she saw armed men after the fight but not before. Among them she recognized Reece Chambers carrying a rifle and Harry Chambers with a near-handled pistol. She said in the morning passed the spot where she was standing, across from the bank building where lay the body of A. S. Boulcher, one of the slain Baldwin-Felts men, one of them remarked: "Isn't that good bait for fishing?" Miss Hamilton further said she saw Hatfield and Ed Chambers search the body of the detective she both was Boulcher and another man lying near the bank.

"THANK GOODNESS MY SUFFERING IS OVER"

Johnstown Nurse Didn't See How She Could Ever Get Well But Tanager Restores Health and She Gains 33 Pounds.

One of the most interesting statements yet published in connection with Tanager was given a few days ago by Mrs. Ella Overdorf, a professional nurse residing at 189 Griffith St., Johnstown. Mrs. Overdorf has resided in Johnstown all her life and her statement will be read with interest everywhere. Here is what she says:

"I weighed just ninety-two pounds and thought my case was hopeless, but now I weigh one hundred and twenty-four and really believe Tanager saved my life."

"For years I had suffered awfully from rheumatism. At times I couldn't use my arms at all and I was beginning to think I might lose the use of them altogether. My legs ached dreadfully and frequently my whole body seemed racked with pain so I couldn't even comb my hair or lace my shoes."

"My stomach became disordered and I was eating scarcely enough to keep me alive. For the last three years I lived almost entirely on milk and soup and light things like that. At times I became so ill I couldn't retain even a glass of water and I would lie in bed so long it was almost unbearable. My nerves were worn to a frazzle and I had regular attacks of neuritis. I was unable to sleep and I fell off so much in weight I didn't think I could live much longer."

"But thank goodness, my suffering is over and I just hope that I can be as strong as I ever was. Tanager has been a joy I can never forget and I feel thankful for it every time I think of what splendid health I am enjoying. Nothing I eat ever hurts me at all and I have actually gained thirty-two pounds. I am not the least bit nervous and the rheumatism has just about all gone. I sleep as sound as any child I ever saw and feel as strong as the housework does not tire me one bit."

Tanager is sold in Connellsville by all leading druggists. Adv.

USE IODINE FOR SKIN IRRITATIONS

Pimples and Blemishes Vanish. People would only have faith in the home at all times for a remedy to rid them of the most common skin afflictions and always have an antiseptic and healing remedy for everyday accidents and ailments. Iodine is a woman who stands after many years' experience in making a large family.

"Iodine Remedy for Irritations," she says, "we used to call it St. Anthony's fire when I was young. The red, irritated swollen skin, and itching and burning are annoying and it is the remedy."

Physicians are practically unanimous in recommending Iodine for every skin condition which is itching, red and raw, but never irritates or burns, and is instantly relieved. It is quickly absorbed into the tissues and glands, usually with a prompt relief.

Druggists have the genuine Iodine compound and readily recognize it as it serves in every condition. Be sure to get Iodine for best results.

"Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire—conscience"

THIS is the rule George Washington wrote in his copy book when a school-boy.

If this old trouble ridden world would observe this good advice most of the things which worry and plague it in these turbulent times, would automatically settle themselves.

Let's all make the occasion of Washington's birthday, a time to thank God we live in America, and to pledge ourselves anew to American ideals.

An Adventure
Romance

By George Agnew Chamberlain

Copyright, The Bobbs Merrill Company

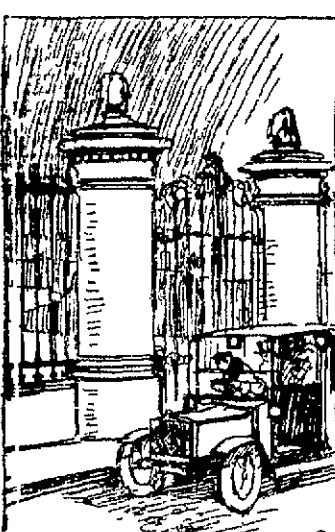

The road to that well known hotel was usually a quiet one, and it was seldom noted as to how any particular driver set out to find this choicest of needles in the haystack of the country inns that dot the landscape of Westchester and adjacent counties as long as he brought the search to a successful end somewhere on this side of the prongs of hunger.

Nevertheless, had not Mr. Tremont, himself a motorist of no mean experience, been completely absorbed by the sudden discovery that he had lost his right arm, he would have been struck in the head by two things: first, that this was certainly not any one of the climbing roads to the Greenwood hotel; second, that the man at the wheel knew more about losing his way in the vicinity of Manhattan and finding it again than did the combined roadmaps of the United States and its allies—supposing it to have had allies at the time. However, Mr. Tremont's absorption was not only absolute but continuous so that it held him in its inexorable grip right up to the moment of his "hasty awakening" and even over the edge. He was just saying "My darling, never fear, I'm taking you to a place so quiet and so guarded that this dream which you have dreamed in an unexpected glory will flow on unbroken as long as we are true to it and to ourselves" when the cab drove up at a solemn and impressive point.

Without leaving his seat, the cabman reached back, unlatched the door and threw it open. "Greenwood cemetery, or he barked.

"The girl was first to grasp the words the time and the place. Oh! she gasped and in the sound of her cry Mr. Randolph could divine her whole body suddenly stiffening to a rigid awakening and to the stabbing memory of the last time she had come to this still place, her heart bursting with its long farewell to all that was left of her mother.

Then came Mr. Beucher Fremont's voice in old-time familiar tones. "Greenwood cemetery. What you try-

"Greenwood Cemetery Sir," he barked. "I'll be back here. I said Greenwood cemetery. Of all he'd found. What the devil! What the hell! What the—What—"

He choked himself into a gulping, inarticulate silence as he climbed from the cab to look at the face of the girl. "What of all human souls? No sooner had he gazed than Miss Van Tassel found herself in voice again. "Oh! oh! she would be pressing her hands to her eyes, actually open, 'Take me away from here!'

"Sure miss," said Mr. Randolph promptly, then in his clutch and was off.

"If you—can you—have you?" "Definitely Confound you and—unperturbed. 'Hail! Hail! I'm going to get home!'" The first of these cries was very plaintive, the first very faintly heard by Mr. Randolph. After that, they came down the road, something that sounded very much like the ghost of a will or despair, but the driver paid no heed. His attention was absorbed by something quite different, the dry sob of a little leap of smoke-colored cloth.

De tous subtleties and the finesse of the road taken were swept from Mr. Randolph's mind, he made straight for the bridge and house, but long before they reached the river all sound had ceased to issue from the cab and in its stead reigned a purposeful, almost menacing silence. What was she thinking in there? What could she think? Why didn't she go right on crying and keep her mind fully occupied with that?

As they swept down the incline from the bridge into City Hall park, he suddenly realized that he had been on the verge of giving himself away. He half turned his head and shouted through the speaking slot, "What address, please?"

The voice came back to him from very close at hand, her face had been pressed to the glass in an effort to make him out. "At the corner of the Avenue and East Ninth street."

Ten minutes later he drew up his cab at the appointed spot and reached back to throw open the door, but kept his foot on the clutch release, saving the goats in media hostia.

All his precautions were in vain. As he opened the cab door his coat sleeve was seized in a very determined grip and drawn toward it, reaching its elbow in a lightning-leap, that left him the Hobson's choice of either getting out and facing his captor, or staying in his arm's reach. He chose to get down from his seat quickly.

"Well, Bobbi," murmured Miss Van T.

Mr. Randolph attempted no evasion. He handed the lady to the curb and guided her gently toward her own door and up the high steps. "Mindge," he said, "you fought a great fight to night and what you had won you felt sorry for Tremont and surrendered. You were swept too high on the wave of the best that is in you. Promise me that you won't forget that you have won. Promise me that you will wait and take Tremont all of him with honor."

SHE HAD VERY WEAK STOMACH

Verries Were Unsteady, Then She Took Hypo-Cod and Found Relief.

OTHER REMEDIES FAILED.

I suffered from nervousness and a very weak stomach. I tried many other remedies before taking Hypo-Cod and did not receive any relief. However, after taking Hypo-Cod my nerves have become steady and my stomach is a great deal stronger. I recommend Hypo-Cod because it was the only medicine that gave me relief," declared Emma Garbin, 1842 Rose street, Pittsburg, Pa.

Some people drag along for years without trying to get relief. Others try various remedies but without experience it is hard to pick out the right one. Others pay out like sums of money without getting any. No one can go wrong by taking the advice of thousands of people in all walks of life, every one of whom praise this newer, more modern and powerful preparation that tastes so good and agrees perfectly with a weakened stomach. This is the time of year to take Carlos Hypo-Cod. All druggists have it. The cost is trifling compared with results.—Adv.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage and Sulphur properly compounded brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and it is not so good. Now, however, it is available in a bottle of this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost.

Don't stay gray. Try it. No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally, and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and pass this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application of two or three days becomes beautiful dark glossy and attractive.—Adv.

ATTENDING TO CHICKENS AND GARDEN

My neighbors are surprised to see me looking so well, or to find that I would not live to see winter. I had six hens around my house, I was going to take them to the market, but they were so fat and plump that I could not get them into the car. A friend in St. Louis told me to use May's Wonderful Remedy. I now feel better than in all my life. I am doing my own work, attending to my chickens and my garden and have cleaned house. It is a simple, harmless preparation, but removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the in-laboration which causes indigestion, flatulence, and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere. Adv.

Lives to See the Prescription He Wrote in 1892 the Worlds Most Popular Laxative Remedy

DR. W. B. CALDWELL TODAY
Born in St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 27, 1829
Began the manufacture of his famous prescription in 1892

Founder of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, long past Biblical old age, but hale and hearty—Still sees patients daily—Wonderful achievement of a "country doctor."

WHEN I started to practice medicine back in 1875, there were no pills or tablets or salt waters for the relief of constipation, and no artificial remedies made from coal tar.

The prescription for constipation that I used early in my practice, and which I put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid remedy, and I have never had reason to change it. I intended it for women, children and elderly people, and these need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

I am proud to say that under successful management my prescription has proven its worth and is now the most famous liquid laxative in the world. The fact that over eight million bottles have been sold by druggists, health food stores, and the "substance" of mothers whose chief interest is the health of their children.

It is particularly pleasing to me to know that the biggest half of these eight million bottles were bought by mothers for themselves and their children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for grownups. The price of a bottle holding 7 1/2 ounces is six cents, such a bottle will last a family several months.

I have never made a secret of what is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. These ingredients are endorsed in the U. S.

Holds This Double Advantage—Price and Quality

Performance and quality establish comparisons. Thus it is natural that men think the Essex with much costlier cars. But in addition we urge you to consider the Essex price. Show you are an assured its ability and endurance against other cars.

It is its own speed, up to 71 miles an hour. Its 2037 miles a 70 hours, averaging more than 1 mile a minute, never equalled. And think that four separate Essex cars broke the transcontinental record, which score of cars had attempted for five years in vain.

In appearance, dependability, as well as price, it commands preference of judicious buyers.
